[4] The Synopsis of Mariam Khan is a creative and inquisitive child who does not take things by the face. She is the youngest member of a large family. Her grandfather is a patriarch. Mariam loves her father Majaz Khan (Khalid Siddiqui), who is an idealistic journalist and owns a newspaper. The show is based in Bhopal, a city that mixes westernization and tradition. Her mother Madeha (Rukhsar Rehman) is only concerned about marrying her daughters, while Mariam plans to become a reporter and shares an emotional bond with her father. But the Khan family hides a secret from the world. Unbeknown to the younger generation, her father is charged with terrorism and shot dead while a pilgrim takes young Mariam. After 10 years, Mariam grows up. To escape her past, she takes the name Manjeet Kaur and starts living in Amritsar while working as an independent cab driver. Once, taking one of her passengers to Badnaam Hall to meet a stranger (Fawad), she is shocked when she sees a photo of her father in her hand. She later suspects Fawad and tries to learn more about her father. In the process, she learns that her allegedly dead family is actually alive and her house has not burned down. She was made to believe that her family was not alive with Fawad's mother so she could own a rhodesiar house in the name of Mariam Mariam and Fawad to fall in love. Majaaz turned out to be a living, not a terrorist. Later, Majaz joins them. They begin to prepare for the marriage of Zayn and Meacher and Fawad and Mariam. Then, after marrying Zayn-Meacher and Fawad-Mariam, everything learns about fawad and Bhakti's daughter, Cheek. They later realize that Cheek is not Fawad's daughter – that Rifat blackmailed Bhakti to say so, but she objected. Rifat finally killed Bhakti and created a fake story that Cheek is Fawad's daughter.
